To Whom It May Concern,

If you are considering a speaker for an in-service day, or related event, I recommend you consider Brandon Lee White. I hired Brandon to come to Children's Mercy Hospital of Kansas City and work with my group on morale and critical thinking. The response was very positive! Brandon's stories, group participation, and demonstrations allowed for an entertaining and productive training event.

At one point Brandon put the group in teams and gave each team a balloon and sharpie. Each team brainstormed using the critical thinking techniques that were taught to reveal challenges within the department as well as provide viable solutions. I particularly enjoyed how Brandon encouraged the group members to provide solutions that they could implement themselves in a way that demonstrated teamwork, resourcefulness, and responsibility.

Lastly, Brandon finished the training with an entertaining team-builder, swing dance! It's not often that a speaker has the professional training and knowledge to implement something as special as ballroom dance into their presentations. This especially set Brandon apart as a unique and substantive addition to our event.

Sincerely,
